

June 2020

Letter from the Editors

Joe McFalls
Cornell University

Wilson Blum
Cornell University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarship.sha.cornell.edu/crer>

Part of the Real Estate Commons

Recommended Citation

McFalls, J., & Blum, W. (2020). Letter from the editors. Cornell Real Estate Review, 18, 5. Retrieved from: <https://scholarship.sha.cornell.edu/crer/vol18/iss1/4>

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by The Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Cornell Real Estate Review by an authorized editor of The Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact hotellibrary@cornell.edu.

If you have a disability and are having trouble accessing information on this website or need materials in an alternate format, contact web-accessibility@cornell.edu for assistance.

Letter from the Editors

Abstract

On behalf of the entire Cornell Real Estate Review Editorial Board, we are pleased to present Volume 18 (2020) of the Cornell Real Estate Review. A student-run publication founded in 2002, the Review chronicles the achievements, activities, and scholarship of students in Cornell's Baker Program in Real Estate. This year, as detailed throughout this journal, Baker Program students obtained internship and full-time opportunities with dynamic real estate companies across the country and world, again boasted strong performances in real estate competitions, engaged with leading real estate firms in Singapore and Miami, and explored varied topics in research articles.

Keywords

Cornell, real estate, research, design, business economics, engineering, finance, law, planning, development, marketing, property management

Letter from the Editors

DEAR READERS,

On behalf of the entire Cornell Real Estate Review Editorial Board, we are pleased to present Volume 18 (2020) of the Cornell Real Estate Review. A student-run publication founded in 2002, the Review chronicles the achievements, activities, and scholarship of students in Cornell's Baker Program in Real Estate. This year, as detailed throughout this journal, Baker Program students obtained internship and full-time opportunities with dynamic real estate companies across the country and world, again boasted strong performances in real estate competitions, engaged with leading real estate firms in Singapore and Miami, and explored varied topics in research articles.

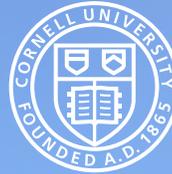

For additional content, we encourage you to continue interacting with us online by visiting our blog (<https://blog.realestate.cornell.edu/>), listening to the Cornell Real Estate Review Podcast on iTunes or Spotify, and following our daily lives as students via Instagram (@cornellbakerpre). We enjoy interacting with our readers, listeners, and followers year-round as we cover the latest news, trends, and developments affecting the real estate industry.

The Review reflects the efforts of the fourteen Baker Program students who comprise its Editorial Board as well as two faculty advisors. The Editorial Board is immensely grateful for the continued support and guidance of these faculty advisors, Dr. Michael Tomlan, a Cornell professor and the outgoing Director of Graduate Studies overseeing the Baker Program, as well as Dustin Jones, Esq., our Program Director. Their efforts have elevated the Review – and the Baker Program – to ever greater heights. We hope that you enjoy this edition of the Review and will continue to remain engaged with the Baker Program.

Sincerely,

Joe McFalls (MPSRE '20)

Wilson Blum (MPSRE '20)

Cornell Baker Program in Real Estate

