

6-1-1995

The Research Forum

Judi Brownell

Cornell University School of Hotel Administration, jlb18@cornell.edu

Michael Morgan

Cornell University

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarship.sha.cornell.edu/articles>

Part of the Hospitality Administration and Management Commons

Recommended Citation

Brownell, J. (1995). The research forum. Cornell Hotel and Restaurant Administration Quarterly, 36, 3, 71.

This Article or Chapter is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Hotel Administration Collection at The Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Articles and Chapters by an authorized administrator of The Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact hlmdigital@cornell.edu.

The Research Forum

Abstract

We are pleased to present the first Research Forum, which we anticipate will become a regular feature of the Cornell Hotel and Restaurant Administration Quarterly. During the past 18 months we received manuscripts covering a wide range of disciplines— including finance, food and beverage management, marketing, and property development. Our thanks both to contributors who considered the Research Forum as an appropriate outlet for their work and to our board of editors, who applied rigorous standards in selecting papers they found relevant and intellectually provocative.

Disciplines

Hospitality Administration and Management

Comments

Required Publisher Statement

© Sage. Reprinted with permission. All rights reserved.

The Research Forum

Edited by Judi Brownell and
Michael Morgan,
Cornell University

We are pleased to present the first Research Forum, which we anticipate will become a regular feature of the Cornell Hotel and Restaurant Administration Quarterly. During the past 18 months we received manuscripts covering a wide range of disciplines—including finance, food and beverage management, marketing, and property development. Our thanks both to contributors who considered the Research Forum as an appropriate outlet for their work and to our board of editors, who applied rigorous standards in selecting papers they found relevant and intellectually provocative.

The interdisciplinary nature of the hospitality industry provides an opportunity for a wide range of contributions. We seek papers that suggest innovative ways of examining the fabric of hospitality and that propose new methodologies for detecting changes and nuances in that fabric. This may include, for example, newly advanced statistical methods for studying restaurant market positioning, as well as new ethnographic approaches to understanding hotel employees' subcultures. Please think of the Research Forum as a sort of long-term "research and development" venture in hospitality management, a forum that stimulates scholars to rethink current models and that provides hospitality managers with potential innovations in management practice.

With your contributions and the assistance of our reviewers, we expect the Research Forum to distinguish itself in the field of hospitality research.

Board of Editors

Pamela Barr
Emory University

Cynthia Cordes
Binghamton University

Mark Davis
Bentley College

Jan deRoos
Cornell University

J. David Ferris
P. W. Wood & Son, Inc.

Mark Fulford
Cornell University

Steven Grover
Indiana University

Tim Hinkin
Cornell University

Nicholas M. Kiefer
Cornell University

Sheryl Kimes
Cornell University

Warren Lieberman
Decision Focus

Robert H. Moorman
West Virginia University

Malcom Noden
Cornell University

Michael Purdy
Governors State University

Vithala Rao
Cornell University

Stowe Shoemaker
University of Nevada—Las Vegas

G. Lynn Shostack
Joyce International

Tony Simons
Cornell University

Linda Stone
University of Minnesota—Minneapolis

Scott I. Tannenbaum
SUNY—Albany

Bruce Tracey
Cornell University

Minakshi Trivedi
SUNY—Buffalo

Gary Vallen
Northern Arizona University

Thomas A. Wright
University of Nevada—Reno